Sociology 303 lectures/seminars: Tuesday & Thursday: 2:00-3:30 (Anso 203)

Office Hours: Tuesday 3:30-4:30; Thursday 1:00-2:00 (Anso 2212)

Course Description:

Societies are shaped and reshaped by migration flows across international boundaries. Large scale migrations have historically been connected to processes of colonialism (from Europe to the Americas), slavery (from west Africa to various plantation economies), uneven industrialization (from global south to global north), and displacements due to war, political persecution, or ecological disasters producing diverse refugee populations. This course will focus on current trends and approaches to understanding migration both as a complex global phenomenon and with particular attention to Canada. We will explore the contexts in which people choose to migrate, and those in which movement is not voluntary. State's play a significant role in controlling national borders, and different immigration and asylum regimes create distinctions between legal future citizens, temporary migrants with limited rights, and more precarious undocumented migrants. Readings will explore how processes of migration are gendered and linked to larger economic forces, and migrant experiences of belonging, unbelonging, and transnational circuits and practices that redefine sending and receiving societies. Finally, we will explore the contemporary politics of immigration and multiculturalism in Europe and North America.

Learning Objectives:

- 1) To understand historical and contemporary patterns of global migration
- 2) To understand theoretical debates about processes and outcomes of migration
- 3) To understand how Canadian society is shaped by historical and contemporary forms of migration
- 4) To develop critical thinking about issues associated with migration

Required Reading:

Two journal articles are assigned each week. The full details of each article are listed in the Seminar Reading Schedule, pages 6-8 in this syllabus.

All journal articles listed can be download from the UBC library system at <http://search.library.ubc.ca/#journals>. Click on search journals; type in the name of the journal; choose the provider to access that journal; log on to CWL (campus-wide-login) with your user name and password; download the article. Because you need to access journal articles through UBC library in order to view/read/download/print journal articles without paying, I have not included the separate url for each journal.

Course Requirements:Seminar Participation: 10%

The course will be organized with lectures on Tuesday and seminars on Thursday. It is essential that students complete weekly readings before the Thursday seminar in order to actively participate in seminar discussions.

Students should come prepared to raise questions and comments in every seminar (and indeed, in every lecture). Each student, working in groups of 3 or 4, will lead the discussion in one seminar in weeks 4-12. This will involve briefly summarizing the week's readings (no more than 15 minutes), developing questions to guide discussion, and facilitating class discussion.

Seminar participation will be graded according to attendance and informed contributions to discussions throughout the term (5%), and facilitation of one seminar (5%). The latter will be a group mark so you must coordinate with your partners for effective facilitation.

Critical reflections: 20%

You must write 4 (out of a possible 5) brief critical reflections on course readings. Each critical reflection is worth 5%.

Due Dates: any 4 of the following: September 18, October 2, October 16, November 6 and November 20. Details for this assignment are on page 3.

Immigrant Interview Assignment: 35%

Profile and Interview Guide

Course Value: 5% Due Date: October 7

Transcribed Interview and Thematic Analysis

Course Value: 30% Due Date: November 13

Details for this assignment are on pages 4-5.

Final Exam: 35%

Course Value: 35% Due Date: December final exam period

Format: Take-home Essay Exam

Extensions for written assignments will only be granted for illness or family crises.

Other late assignments will be subject to penalties.

Academic Integrity is an integral part of all universities, and violations of academic integrity cannot be tolerated, even if they are unintentional. Familiarize yourself with relevant UBC policies:

Faculty of Arts grading guidelines: <http://legacy.arts.ubc.ca/faculty-amp-staff/resources/courses-and-grading/grading-guidelines.html>

Critical Reflections:

You will produce a series of 4 (out of 5 possible) critical reflections on the readings for the different substantive sections of the course. These are intended to spur you to actively engage with the literature and the issues discussed in class.

- 1) Theoretical approaches and trends: readings for weeks 2-3: due September 18.
- 2) States, borders and asylum: readings for weeks 4-5: due October 2.
- 3) Gender and labour: readings for weeks 6-7: due October 16.
- 4) Settlement, 2nd generation, and transnationalism: readings for weeks 8-10: due November 6.
- 5) Politics, attitudes, and multiculturalism: readings for weeks 11-12: due November 20.

All critical reflections are due in class on the due date. Penalties will be imposed for late submissions. Please do not e-mail assignments.

This assignment is not intended to be a summary of the readings. It is intended as a series of short 'thought pieces' that convey how you are thinking about the material, thoughts about specific points or issues raised in one or more class readings. For example, you can use these pieces to disagree with an author's arguments or conclusions; to extend the analysis in somewhat different directions; to contribute additional insights; to raise additional questions or points that you think are important; or you may wish to make links between readings in different weeks; to evaluate points of disagreement between authors; or to draw analytical connections to current events.

Each reflection should be about 2 pages double-spaced. Be sure to include citations for the readings you address.

Grading Criteria:

These assignments will be graded on the following criteria:

- a) Demonstrates a sound grasp of the week's readings.
- b) Offers some additional insights, questions, or thoughts.
- c) Reflections are connected to broader themes in the course and/or sociological concepts and theories.
- d) Is well written, clearly organized, and persuasively argued.

Course Value: 20%

Each assignment is worth 5% of the grade.

Immigrant Interview Assignment: 35%

The purpose of this assignment is two-fold: to give you experience developing an interview guide and conducting an in-depth interview, and to connect academic discussions to real life experiences. You will choose one person to interview about their experience of migrating to and settling in Canada. The interviewee must be:

- at least 19 years old (no minors),
- born in a country other than Canada or the United States
- migrated to Canada as an adult or a teenager (13 years or older)
- and has resided in Canada for at least 5 years.

The interviewee may be a friend, a relative, a neighbour, a classmate or other acquaintance. You must follow ethics for informed consent, get a signed consent form, and permission to audio-record the interview.

Before beginning the interview assignment, all students must complete the Course on Research Ethics (CORE) tutorial TCPS2 (Tri-Council Policy Statement 2). The tutorial must be completed on-line and can be found at the following website: <http://www.ethics.gc.ca/eng/education/tutorial-didacticiel/>. It can take up to 3 hours to complete, so do not leave it until the last minute. Make sure you print your CORE TCPS2 certificate.

Part 1: Profile and Interview Guide: 5% Due: October 7

Write a brief profile of the person you want to interview. Develop an interview guide that outlines the questions you will ask. Link the questions to the biography of the interviewee. For example, you will want to ask different questions of someone who arrived as a teenager versus a middle aged parent with young children, or someone who came as a refugee versus a business immigrant. Be sure to link questions to some of the themes in the course (why people migrate; how state policies/categories shape migration; how gender matters; experiences in the labour market; questions of belonging (or not); transnational practices, etc.). Develop questions that invite reflections, anecdotes and examples, rather than yes or no answers.

Attach your CORE TCPS2 certificate to the profile and interview guide.

Part 2: Interview and Thematic Analysis: 30% Due: November 13

Part 2 A: Once the instructor has approved your interview guide, you will conduct and audio-record a face-to-face interview that should take 40 to 60 minutes. Ask your interviewee to choose a pseudonym to maintain confidentiality. Try to conduct the interview like a conversation, using prompts and probes to get more in-depth responses. Transcribe the entire interview (and translate into English if necessary). Type a verbatim transcript of the interview. Do not edit or summarize. At the top of the transcript, in a brief paragraph, describe how you found the interviewee, where the interview took place, and how you feel the interview went. Staple a copy of the signed consent form to the transcript. Store the audio-recording on a USB. The instructor may request a copy of the USB.

Part 2 B: In addition to the interview transcript you must write a short Thematic Analysis of the interview in a maximum of 5 pages (double-spaced). The purpose of the thematic analysis is to link themes found in the interview with some of the key issues addressed in the course. To develop your thematic analysis, draw on relevant readings in the course plus at least 3 additional scholarly sources. Cite all sources, including course readings. Develop your analysis with short quotes from the interview. Staple the thematic analysis to the transcript.

Citations should use APA style. The UBC link for APA citations can be found at: <http://wiki.ubc.ca/images/6/6f/Apastyle.pdf>

Grading Criteria for Immigrant Interview Assignment:

Part 1: Profile and Interview Guide:

- Relevance of questions given the background of the interviewee
- Relevance of questions to themes explored in the course
- Are questions asked in an open-ended way and in plain English (or, if appropriate, plainly stated when translated into the interviewee's first language)?
- Thought given to the order of questions, connections, and prompts.

Part 2: Interview and Thematic Analysis:

- How well was the interview handled? (Did you probe? Engage in active listening? Make flexible use of your guide?)
- Is the transcription complete and comprehensible?

- How thoughtful is the analysis of themes drawn from the interview?
- Is the analysis substantiated with relevant quotes from the interview?
- Is the analysis substantiated with the academic literature?
- How well do you develop the links between the interview and the literature?
- Is it well written, clearly organized, and persuasively argued?
